

The Big Trip or The Big Disaster

There isn't a better feeling than hitting the road and discovering Australia with your camper trailer in tow. Dream Complete!!!!

You've packed the car, hooked up the camper trailer and you're on your way!!!

Then your doubts set in, do you know why? You've realised that this is the 1st time that you've taken your camper trailer on the road and you've got no idea what to do next!!!

Let's reverse back 3 months.....

You've been given the keys to your new camper trailer, you're all glassy eyed when the salesman is giving you the walk through of how it all works and away you go – as soon as you drive away you've forgotten everything that they have explained to you. You get home and the 1st challenge is the BIG reverse – TAKE YOUR TIME, don't rush this – you've got this, it's all good.

The next thing you should do is take it away for a few days, this will give you a better understanding of how everything works. You come home, reflect and then organise another short trip away – the more little trips you can go on, the easier it is to setup your camper trailer.

These may sound like easy steps to do, but if you don't do this then that big trip can be your worst nightmare!!! You'll get home, park the camper trailer and won't go out again. Please don't do that, what a waste that would be.

Important things to remember:

1. Don't panic, take your time
2. Take weekend trips away
3. Reflect on how your weekend away was like
4. Could you make the experience any better?
5. HAVE FUN!!!! You only have one life, make the most of it!!!
